The hardest game ever crafted

Dark Souls players will cry and fall to their knees the second they find someone who has done the impossible, beaten Paw Patrol World. This makes Halo 2 LASO look like a baby challenge. Beating this game will take more skill than living in America as a minority within a town full of police officers. The combat is excellent and purely skill based, no luck, no cheeky metas like Elden Ring.The story is a masterpiece, nothing half finished like Metal Gear.The graphics are supreme, unbeatable, extremely realistic, Starfield can't even

Lost my sanity

I an 18 year old thought it would be funny to play a game made for children out of boredom, however that was not the case. I spent 6 hours and 26 minutes of my life playing the hit game Paw Patrol World. I even got every achievement. Do i feel accomplished well yes but also no. I could've spent that night doing anything else but instead I subjected myself to this tomfoolery. Listening to Ryder and his pups go on and on about how the blimp guy cant have a cat party and about how hes "terrorizing the 4 areas which you play in"

This game is different from the other paw patrol games, it's an all open world game. Lots of main campaign missions and side quests for each pup. Lots of secrets to be found which gives the pups special rewards. I'd definitely recommend it for fans of the series. I'm 53 years old and I love it. No bugs in the game so far. Great game!

Helped me realize that beauty can be found anywhere, and that if you look hard enough there's a very slight chance you might even be able to spot it, but that rose colored sunglasses really help raise the odds significantly. And that sometimes it's ok not to be ok that you waited all year for a shamrock shake and then have three separate McDonalds tell you that their shake machine was either broken or being cleaned. It also made me wish that dogs were real, except I wouldn't want them to talk.

Its ok

Great for kids, but its a bit lacking of fun to do content. Could have easily let sky fly or given us a racing\snowboarding minigame, but there's nothing like that in the game. My kids were most excited to go in the paw patrol tower and the throne room in barkingburg and you cant visit either of those places. This game had potential but felt rushed. Worth no more than 20 bucks imo. Kids ages 5, 3, and 2Reason for 3 star is no replayability once the story is done for my kids

I'm hours into it and still in first area. I just wish there was a game based off the two movies. A free roam like this, but with the style graphics and premise of the movies. Also great that you can skip the chatting. Keller , Schillinger and Warden Glen approve. Dont know if Adabisi and Peter Shebetta will..
🤔 but I digress. Make Oz season 7

Deserving Of A Chance

This is an Introductory Open World. It gets it's enjoyable factor mainly from the concept rather than the Gameplay. The feeling of playing as the Paw Patrol in an actual proper game. The Gameplay itself compliments it. The Driving is smooth and the Button Prompts active. The exploration being there if you want to play more or have some customization. The main issue with the game is the opportunities that are missed. You can't fly or use any gadgets outside of actions. Areas could be bigger and certain places

Easy GP Points with Some Gripes

Overall, this is a very cute game. It's certainly a near mindless way to work on those GamePass achievements/points (though later achievements are predictably longer).As far as "Open World" or "MMO Style" ... it's a pretty contained world, though you can stick around as long as you like to get those 100% things. For the MMO types, it's a pretty handheld trip trough a main story and some side quests, and the side quests can be replayed (kind of annoying when you're trying to figure out which ones you might have

this is silly

this game is very silly and hard to complete. after many hours of grinding i realized something. why Taiwan should be apart of the peoples republic of china. I believe once my glorious leader (xi jiping) returns taiwan to its former glory the developers could add sweat shops to simulate chinas great work ethic. the children from these apple sweat shops will yern for this game after many hours of making my iphones. Since dog is already in the game adding the hunting and eating mechanic wont be hard to add if requested by
